Integrity Garage Floors

Featured on Contractor Click Podcast

This month, Lance Jensen, owner of Integrity Garage Floors and South Fork Coatings, visited Contractor Click and joined CEO Danny Barrera on their podcast to share what it really takes to build a high-performance team and scale a service business the right way. The episode dives into one of the most important topics for contractors today:

“What happens when your team operates like owners—not employees?”

Lance breaks down how he’s built a culture rooted in accountability, leadership, and long-term growth—without relying on micromanagement.

From defining core values that a team actually lives out, to creating systems that support growth without chaos, the conversation offers real-world insights for contractors who want to build stronger operations and a team they can trust.

EPOXY TRAINING

Join Lance Jensen and the South Fork Coatings team for a powerful 3-day epoxy floor training class. We start with an instruction day at the world class LeMay Car Museum and then move on to 2 more days of hands-on experience in garages coating the floors. Contractors fly in from all over the country for this top tier training. It is designed to teach you a proven system of launching and running a successful coatings business. You'll walk away ready to roll, with the knowledge and confidence to do it all end-to-end.

*Sorry, not available for Seattle area residents.
